WHITE FLANNEL TROUSERS

It is surprising how far a pair of White Flannel Trousers will go in dressing up a man. Worn with a blue serge coat he gets in the "swim" at once at the shore and in good society at the vacation resort.

Don't think there's a "shrink" in these White Flannels with wide turn-up and loops for belt—they'll wash and hold their shape absolutely. They stand for good form in both day and evening wear.

New Management for Columbus Park. Columbus park was opened Saturday evening under new management, and from first night appearances bids fair to become a popular place during the summer months. There was a number attending the dance, many coming from out of town in automobiles. Humphrey's orchestra furnished music for dancing during the evening. The dancing pavilion has been refurnished and trimmed, making it an ideal place for dancing. Order has been made of the principal aims of the management and for this purpose a special office is always present.

POLICE SEIZE TRUCK WITH 195 CASES OF WHISKEY

A New York truck, in charge of Louis H. Sorrell, 35, of Bridgeport, and carrying 195 cases of whiskey valued at approximately $100,000, was seized by the local police Saturday night about ten o'clock near Thames square. Sorrell, with two other men, Silvio M. Gratta, 15, New York, who were on the truck are held in bonds of $5,000 each for appearance this (Monday) morning before U. S. Commissioner Earl Murphy, the case having been turned over to him by the local police.

The truck with its load of whiskey was bound from New York city to Albany, N. Y., according to a statement made by Sorrell. While passing through this city Saturday night the truck had stopped near Thames square while Sorrell and the two others, who are drivers, went to a restaurant for lunch. Officer Ralph DeVito who was on duty in that section noticed the big canvass covered truck and while he was nearby the truck and the 195 cases of whiskey are under heavy guard in a local garage.

As he afterwards told the officers, Officer DeVito asked him what he was carrying on the truck and he answered "Whiskey." The officer then took charge of the truck and the three men were taken to the station by officers DeVito, Patrick Murphy and Daniel O'Neil.

Sorrell exhibited a permit to transport whiskey but as the police question the validity of the permit the trio was held. Asked what he was doing in eastern Connecticut he was transporting the whiskey from New York city to Albany, N. Y.

Sorrell said that he had been advised to come through Connecticut and was told the roads over the route he was following were better than the direct road to Albany from New York city.

The police turned the case over to U. S. Commissioner Earl Murphy and a hearing will be held before the commissioner this (Monday) morning. Bonds were fixed at $5,000 in each case.

DEER FAMILY SMALL

Principally because of the high cost of grain the deer family at Mohobah Park numbers but three this summer. Superintendent Smith said Sunday afternoon that had it not been for the extremely high cost of grain in the spring the deer family would be larger than it is at the present time. Several months ago Thomas Scott of New London sent a handsome large deer to the park, providing it was to be his own expense.

The deer was put with the others but would not become reconciled to its new home. A week or ten days after it had been in the enclosure the animal burst a blood vessel while trying to escape, and died.

Shortly afterwards the superintendent had offers of several deer from Stonington but as the deer were practically impossible at that time and the superintendent did not think it advisable to try and get them to the park. Next winter, however, it is hoped to increase the residents of the deer park as an effort will be made to secure a number of new deer.
